Re: Mahood et al. v. Noom, Case No. 20-cv-3677 (LGS) (KHP): Letter Motion for Redaction of Hearing Transcript

Dear Judge Parker:

Pursuant to Paragraph III.d of the Court's Individual Practices, Defendants Noom, Inc and Artem Petakov ("Noom") respectfully request that the Court redact and seal one portion of the January 12, 2021 Hearing Transcript, (ECF No. 147).

During the hearing, Plaintiffs' counsel Mr. McInturff and Mr. Wittels each recited confidential user and refund data that Noom has produced to Plaintiffs. This confidential user and refund data appears on the January 12, 2021 Hearing Transcript at 21:2-5 and 54:3. Consistent with the Court's Individual Practices to limit filings under seal to the information that is strictly necessary to avoid harm to the designating party, Noom seeks to seal only the specific confidential data described in the January 12 Transcript. As set forth below, these proposed redactions are consistent with the Second Circuit's opinions in Lugosch v. Pyramid Co. of Onondaga, 435 F.3d 110 (2d Cir. 2006) and Bernstein v. Bernstein Litowitz Berger & Grossman LLP, 814 F.3d 132 (2d Cir. 2016).

Pursuant to Lugosch, the Court must first assess whether the documents at issue are "judicial documents." 435 F.3d at 119. Once the Court has made that determination, it must assess the weight of the presumption of public access to the documents under the common law and the First Amendment, and then, it must weigh the presumption of public access against any competing interests, such as the privacy interests of the party resisting disclosure. Id. at 119-20.

While Noom does not contest that the January 12 Transcript is a judicial document, the information it seeks to seal relates to material passed between the parties in discovery, explicitly for the purpose of productively engaging in a mediation. As such, the presumption of public access is low. Bernstein, 814 F.3d at 142 (documents "such as those passed between the parties in discovery" often play 'no role in the performance of Article III functions' and so the presumption of access to these records is low") (citation omitted); cf. In re Zyprexa Injunction, 474 F. Supp. 2d 385, 424 (E.D.N.Y. 2007) ("the documents at issue are not litigation filings, but documents produced in discovery, to which the right of public access has not attached"). Here, the confidential information in question is highly sensitive and closely guarded user engagement and refund data that Noom disclosed to Plaintiffs during discovery. Where, as here, redactions are applied narrowly only to specific confidential business information that was designated as confidential under the applicable protective order, courts have found the presumption of public access comparatively low and have granted the party's motion to seal. E.g., In re Keurig Green Mountain Single-Serve Coffee Antitrust Litig., No. 14-md-2542, 2014 WL 12772236, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 5, 2014) (sealing information produced in discovery); Firmode (Int'l) Co. v. Int'l Watch Grp., Inc., No. 2008-4890, 2009 WL 3698137, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 2, 2009) (collecting authorities sealing confidential supplier and pricing information).

Turning to the second portion of the Lugosch test, Noom has significant privacy interests in the data at issue. That information reflects Noom's competitively sensitive usage and revenue data. Noom is a private company and public disclosure of such sensitive information would be highly prejudicial and afford its competitors an unfair advantage, and poses a substantial risk of harm to Noom. Not surprisingly, this is precisely the type of confidential, competitively-sensitive information that courts regularly approve for redaction. E.g., IBM v. Lima, No. 20-4573, 2020 WL 6048773, at *1-3 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 13, 2020) (sealing hearing transcript that reflected "non-public details of IBM's revenues, . . . budget and performance"); In re Keurig, 2014 WL 12772236, at *2 (sealing sales and customer data); Brookdale Univ. Hosp. & Med. Ctr., Inc. v. Health Ins. Plan of Greater N.Y., No. 07-1471, 2008 WL 4541014, at *1 (E.D.N.Y. Oct. 7, 2008) (sealing internal cost and revenue data); Gelb v. AT&T Co., 813 F. Supp. 1022, 1035 (S.D.N.Y. 1993) (sealing internal financial information); see also Bernstein, 814 F.3d at 143 (noting that the duty to protect confidential client information is a factor that weighs in favor of sealing the material in question).

Finally, Noom's privacy interests are especially acute in this instance, because Plaintiffs grossly misconstrue the referenced data in a manner that is highly prejudicial to Noom. For example, Plaintiffs purport to draw conclusions about the number of users who have never opened Noom's app, but Noom has not produced any data of that kind in discovery. Permitting this false information to be unredacted on the docket would obviously be unfair to Noom and cause it potentially significant reputational and competitive harm.

As such, Noom's proposed redactions to the January 12 Hearing Transcript are appropriate and narrowly tailored to protect its interests under Lugosch, 435 F.3d at 120, and Noom respectfully requests that the Court redact and seal the identified portions therein.

In accordance with the Court's Individual Practices and the Southern District of New York's Standing Order 19-mc-00583, Noom has filed this letter motion publicly on ECF and the proposed sealed documents contemporaneously under seal via ECF.

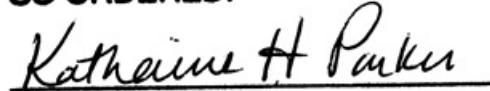

Sincerely,

/s/ Charles Low

Charles Low

The Court agrees that the transcript at ECF No. 147 should be redacted, but only to the limited extent that Defendants propose. Accordingly, Defendants must submit the Southern District's Redaction Request Form to the Court Reporter by February 4, 2021. The parties are free to appeal to the Court if an additional order granting the redaction request becomes necessary.

THE CLERK: Calling case 20-civil-3677, Mahood vs.

Noom Incorporated, the Honorable Katharine H. Parker, presiding.

Beginning with counsel for the plaintiff, could you please make your appearance for the record?

MR. STEVEN WITTELS: Steven Wittels for plaintiffs and the proposed class. Good morning, your Honor.

HONORABLE KATHARINE H. PARKER (THE COURT): Good morning.

MR. J. BURKETT MCINTURFF: Burkett McInturff for plaintiff and the proposed class. Good morning, your Honor.
And with us are Michael Chiamataro and Douglas Forrest from IOS Litigation Services, who is plaintiff's ESI consultants.
We also have Richard Friedman, who is counsel to nonparty Ian Myer on the line. He'll make his appearance in due course, but I wanted to note that for your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay.

19

THE CLERK: And counsel for the defendants, could you please make your appearance for the record?

THE COURT: Was there anybody else --

22

Yes. Good morning, your Honor. Sorry, your Honor.

23

THE COURT: Was there anybody else from plaintiff on the line or --

MR. WITTELS: No.

PROCEEDINGS

MR. RICHARD FRIEDMAN: Your Honor, this is

Mr. Friedman -- I'm sorry, go ahead, Jessica.

MS. JESSICA HUNTER: This is Jessica Hunter for plaintiff and the proposed class.

MR. STEVEN COHEN: And Steven Cohen from Wittels McInturff Palikovic for plaintiff and the proposed class.

MR. RICHARD FRIEDMAN: And, your Honor, this is Richard Friedman from Richard Friedman PLLC. My firm does not represent the plaintiffs, as Burkett mentioned, but we represent nonparty Ian Myer.

THE COURT: Okay. Welcome.

13

MR. FRIEDMAN: Thank you, your Honor.

14

THE COURT: Now for defendants.

15

MR. MICHAEL G. RHODES: Good morning, your Honor.
This is Michael Rhodes of Cooley on behalf of the defendants.
And I'll let my colleague, Ms. Reddy, introduce everybody

THE COURT: Okay.

20

MS. AARTI REDDY: Good morning, your Honor. This is Aarti Reddy on behalf of defendants from the Cooley Law Firm.
I'm appearing with my colleagues, Charles Lowe and Max Bernstein. And we also have our ESI consultant, Rob Dechico, on the line; as well as our ESI attorney, Kevin Duncan.

THE COURT: Okay. Welcome, everyone.

MR. RHODES: Your Honor, this is Michael Rhodes. I believe we also have Macaul Rosen, who's the general counsel of Noom, on the line with us.

THE COURT: Okay. How are you?

MS. MACAUL ROSEN: Very well, thanks.

THE COURT: All right, very good. So before we get started, same rules apply as for all of our court conferences during this pandemic. Please keep your phones on mute unless you are speaking. That helps to ensure the best reception possible so we can hear one another.

This line is open to the press and public on a listen-only basis. I want to remind everyone that the Court prohibits others from recording and rebroadcasting court conferences, including this one. Violations of this rule can result in sanctions.

I also want to let you know that the Court is making an official recording of this call; and if you'd like a transcript, you can order one within three days of today.

And, finally, for the benefit of any court reporter who has to transcribe this conference, I ask that you state your name before speaking.

We have a long agenda for today. You all have submitted quite a lot of documents and arguments for me to

2 read through, and I spent quite a lot of time reviewing it
3 all. I have a -- in reviewing the case, reviewing where you 4 are now, I wanted to talk about a couple of things. So I'm 5 going to just let you know the order in which I want to 6 talk about things. First, I want to talk about the 7 Scheduling Order and modifying dates for discovery and 8 motion practice; I want to talk about the Proposed Amended 9 Complaint; then I want to talk about ESI; then I want to 10 talk about the RFPs; and then we'll talk about other issues 11 that have been raised, including plaintiff's request to 12 modify ECF 58 to allow use of certain information in 13 pursuit of a state court action; Noom's complaint 14 concerning Myer's responses and objection to the subpoena;
15 plaintiff's -- Noom raised the issue regarding plaintiff's 16 production of certain information; and a few other 17 miscellaneous items.

18 So first, with respect to the Scheduling Order, 19 it's clear that you're going to need an extension of the 20 schedule. And I wanted to talk with both sides a little 21 bit about what those deadlines should be. First, the most 22 immediate thing that's coming up in terms of briefing, 23 separate from any Motion to Dismiss and then amended 24 pleading would be class certification. And I wanted to ask 25 plaintiff what are the common issues of fact and law that

PROCEEDINGS

2 you believe exist that you're intending to brief on your 3 anticipated motion for class certification?

4 MR. MCINTURFF: Sure, your Honor. This is Burkett 5 McInturff for plaintiffs. So the case breaks down into 6 deceptive practices claims under state consumer protection 7 laws as well as common-law claims -- and that's common-law 8 fraud and then common-law unjust enrichment and conversion.
9 And a lot of the counts sort of merge on the issue of 10 whether the defendants' conduct would deceive a reasonable 11 person acting reasonably. That issue then involved a wide 12 range of proof that we could have access to prove that the 13 challenged conduct is deceptive. We also have more what I 14 would characterize as sort of threshold issues about, for 15 example, the types of representations and omissions made to 16 class members; the scope of the alleged misrepresentations 17 and omissions.

18 Then after you get past whether the conduct is 19 likely to deceive a reasonable person, you then get into 20 issues of damages. But I think the critical, the biggest 21 component is whether the conduct is likely to mislead; and 22 that gets into all kinds of proof, whether it's consumer 23 complaints or internal emails, considerations that sort of 24 all boil down to what the defendant knew and when it knew 25 it, what the defendant intended by its conduct. And so

PROCEEDINGS

2 that's really -- the analysis of that type of proof is 3 going to take up the lion's share of plaintiff's briefing 4 on class certification.

5 THE COURT: Okay. So let me --

6 MR. WITTELS: Could I jump in on one point, your 7 Honor? This is Steven Wittels.

8 THE COURT: Sure.

9 MR. WITTELS: Just to say, as well, that -- thank 10 you -- the automatic renewal statute that we're challenging 11 in California is also -- just to follow up on what 12 Mr. McInturff said -- is an important common claim that we 13 believe is, you know, susceptible to common proof. And the 14 fact that there's really no -- well, there is a debate, but 15 we think it's a common question that will be certified as 16 to whether defendants violated that statute.

17 THE COURT: Okay. So in terms of the common 18 proof, because that's really what we're talking about for 19 purposes of Rule 23, when you're talking about common 20 proof, one, you have the evidence of what was consumer 21 facing, right? Because those are the statements, those are 22 the statements and/or omissions of what was consumer 23 facing, what you're alleging the consumer relied on. So 24 there are consumer-facing statements, I guess, that you're 25 saying are common to the proposed class with respect to

2 this Healthy Weight Program or certain aspects of it. And 3 so I understand that.

4                   What does the internal -- what do internal 5 communications have to do with whether this conduct would 6 deceive a reasonable person or not? How is that playing 7 into the class certification piece? Just explain that to me 8 a little bit more.

9                   MR. MCINTURFF: Sure. Sure, your Honor. I mean, 10 first of all, it's absolutely critical. And the way that it 11 plays into the class certification piece is to show the 12 Court that this is the common proof that plaintiffs are 13 going to use at trial to prove that the challenged conduct 14 was fraudulent and deceptive or unjust. And the 15 defendants' knowledge that consumers are being deceived and 16 decision to continue with the challenged conduct is 17 critical to an assessment as to whether or not the conduct 18 that's being challenged is in fact deceptive, fraudulent or 19 otherwise unjust.

20                  So the internal communications are really -- 21 because the defendant is going to say, well, no, what we 22 did was not unjust, and our use of the internal 23 communications, it will be to rebut the defense of the 24 conduct to say, look, here's what you knew, here's when you 25 knew it. You know, we already have evidence of thousands

1 PROCEEDINGS 11
2 and thousands of customer complaints. We need to know the 3 response to those complaints, we need to know why the 4 defendants, for example, created an idiosyncratic way to 5 cancel a free trial. That's one issue. Another issue is 6 why the defendant, once the trial lapsed, why did consumers 7 get billed for multiple months instead of maybe one month 8 or one week or the length of time of the trial; why did the 9 defendant impose a charge up to sometimes eight months for 10 the program. So the internal communications, again, will 11 allow us to show that the conduct -- show the Court how 12 we're going to show that the conduct was excessive.

13 And then a whole other component that's critical 14 for -- that the internal communications are critical for is 15 a showing that the conduct was -- the challenged conduct 16 was material. So why the defendant designed the 17 cancellation process the way it did and why the defendant 18 responded to complaints or didn't respond to the complaints 19 will be critical to showing it's material.

20 Then, in addition to that, to certify consumer -- 21 or to certify the common law --

22 THE COURT: Well, wait a minute. Isn't the -- let 23 me just stop you there for a second. As to materiality, 24 isn't the issue whether the representation or omission was 25 material to the reliance -- the consumer and what happened

12

2 in terms of --

3 MR. MCINTURFF: Showing -- sorry, your Honor -- 4 show that the -- showing that the defendants designed the 5 conduct, the challenged conduct, in a way that had the 6 predictable result will help us make the showing that the 7 conduct is material.

8 If I could move onto what's even a more critical 9 point, which is to certify a common-law fraud class action, 10 you have to show enough evidence for the Court to presume 11 reliance on behalf of the class. So this is a critical 12 distinction between a consumer protection count, which most 13 of them don't require a sort of showing of reliance, and a 14 common-law fraud count, which you have to show 15 circumstantial evidence that will allow the Court to 16 conclude that, okay, these -- you know, all of these people 17 that ended up paying for this plan, they didn't do so 18 willingly. So in a common-law fraud class action you 19 marshal all of the evidence of the defendants' intent, 20 their knowledge of the challenged conduct to allow the 21 Court -- we will argue that with this evidence the Court 22 can make a presumption that other class members relied.

23 And that's why typically in a common-law fraud 24 class action, the class certification motion doesn't come 25 until basically the end of fact discovery. And those

2 motions, we've written these motions before, and they're 3 very heavy on the facts that show that -- you know, try to 4 show the common scheme or the common purpose and that the 5 defendants knew that it had a common result. Because once 6 you show that, the Court can then make the inference that 7 not only did these number of consumers who are complaining, 8 were they misled, but the absent class members, who haven't 9 come forward, those individuals were also misled. So the 10 intent and knowledge of the defendants throughout the 11 relevant period is absolutely critical to making the 12 showing that the district court will need to say, okay, I 13 can certify a common-law fraud class because I can make 14 inferences based on the available evidence that the class 15 relied.

16 THE COURT: Okay. And so what I hear you saying 17 is that class cert and merits discovery is intertwined.

18 MR. MCINTURFF: Intimately, your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I want to hear from Noom on this 20 issue and the extent to which Noom believes that there 21 could be a clean separation from class certification 22 discovery and merit discovery.

23 MR. RHODES: Good morning, your Honor. This is 24 Michael Rhodes. Let me just make an observation. This 25 conversation a moment ago started with plaintiff's counsel

1 PROCEEDINGS 14
2 articulating this as a false advertising case. And I 3 believe common-law said this is about what a reasonable 4 consumer would have concluded from the flow of information 5 facing that consumer. And this exercise we're going through 6 right now illustrates the macro-level problem here is that 7 we're constantly trying to boil the ocean in order to deal 8 with the specific issue at hand. Right now we're talking 9 about Rule 23 procedure.

10 There is no doubt, your Honor, that, you know, 11 there is a general desire expressed in the case law as well 12 as the Manual on Complex Litigation that the Federal 13 Judicial Council promulgates that we should at least try to 14 phase discovery in a way that can be differentiated between 15 what's necessary for the Rule 23 analysis and the merits 16 that will ultimately be decided at trial.

17 I would concede to the Court that it is not always 18 the case, as here, to draw a clear line of demarcation 19 between those. And so the question then becomes what 20 amount of information is necessary and what amount of 21 information starts to cross the line into burden and 22 oppressive discovery and when there's no doubt that the 23 plaintiffs here are really over the line. What I would 24 submit to you, your Honor, is take a look at that 25 McLaughlin case, I believe it is, in the Second Circuit,

2 that disavows the use of internal communications to prove 3 the elements of these fraud claims.

4           What we would submit is relevant here is, first, 5 let's start with the materials that face the user or the 6 consumer, ads in the disclosures themselves. Secondly, look 7 at the refund policies and the training policies that Noom
8 has instituted. Third, we would agree about consumer 9 complaints; those might be useful, as well. And then the 10 data that surrounds how consumers actually use the product.
11 Right? So, for example, one of the contentions here is that 12 Noom designed a process where people were automatically 13 renewed, and they didn't want the renewal. Well, there's a 14 lot of data suggesting that people were actively involved 15 in the use of the product after the autorenewal, so that 16 would go against that. So we ought to talk about sampling 17 some usage data conversions, which is the internet 18 equivalent of getting the user to do something, conversion 19 data, and some of the revenue data. The internal 20 documentation and chasing all of that information is really 21 of peripheral relevance. Perhaps documents that would show, 22 you know, how the program itself was developed, you know, I 23 would concede that point.

24           So we're not saying they can't have any 25 information. What we're saying is they're trying to boil

2 the ocean; they're not focused, and this has become sort of 3 just a ritual in how to granularize everything possible
4 under the sun. And the Court is supposed to phase 5 discovery in a way that's fair and balanced and give the 6 plaintiffs a reasonable opportunity to demonstrate their 7 burden under Rule 23 without causing us extensive 8 oppression and expense, which is what we feel is the case.

THE COURT: Okay.

10

MR. MCINTURFF: Can I respond?

11

THE COURT: Sure.

12

MR. MCINTURFF: I respectfully disagree with 13 counsel. We're not trying to boil the ocean. This is a 14 typical level of discovery in a fraud class action. It's as 15 nationwide class action. The conduct is affecting millions 16 of people. It's a -- it actually is a relatively discrete 17 level of discovery that we're seeking; it's just that the 18 defendant is withholding the internal communications about 19 the program and considerations of the program. Mr. Wittels 20 and Palikovic and I have litigated these cases before. It's 21 very common for us to get pre-class certification, 22 extensive email, internal email communication and then to 23 take depositions of the key players in the case to show 24 that the defendant intentionally set out to deceive 25 consumers, and then also in the face of overwhelming red

17

2 flags, which we were already beginning to see those red 3 flags in this case. But in our class certification motions 4 we show that in the face over overwhelming red flags, after 5 the defendants were on notice that consumers were being 6 deceived by the thousands and tens of thousands, that they 7 continued with this course of conduct.

8                 And so it's not an attempt to boil the ocean. It's 9 we want the emails, and we want the internal analysis.
10 That's really the only area that I hear common-law 11 disputing. And it's not too far afield for class 12 certification; it's certainly relevant to the merits. And 13 if you look at the recent Second Circuit cases dealing with 14 common-law fraud class certification, that's the 15 [indiscernible] Foodservices case, as well as the Ex rel
16 Mel Harris Associates case. Both of those class 17 certification motions came at the very end of discovery and 18 involved significant factual development about the 19 underlying conduct. Defense counsel would have us move for 20 class certification based on this limited discovery they're 21 willing to provide and then, you know, as the case law 22 makes very clear -- and your Honor is aware of this because 23 we've dealt with the bifurcation issue a couple of times -- 24 but the case law is very clear then the defendant turns 25 around and says, oh, no, the plaintiffs haven't shown

1 PROCEEDINGS 18

2 enough facts to satisfy their burden at the class 3 certification stage.

4 So it's a Catch-22, and the way courts have 5 handled fraud class actions is they have the class 6 certification motion filed at the end of fact discovery, 7 which we're prepared to do; and then it allows the parties 8 to flesh out all of the issues, and it allows the Court, 9 critically, to make the searching inquiries that are 10 necessary at the class certification stage. Otherwise, it's 11 just conjecture and it's not based on facts, because what 12 you're looking at when you're moving for class 13 certification is you're telling the Court, look, the trial 14 is going to be efficient, we're going to present common 15 proof on behalf of a class of people that is going to show 16 that this conduct was deceptive or fraudulent or otherwise 17 improper. And without access to that proof, we can't make 18 that showing.

19 THE COURT: Okay. So --

20 MR. RHODES: Your Honor, may I respond briefly?

21 THE COURT: Let me -- I have a follow-up question, 22 which is whether plaintiffs are intending to offer any kind 23 of expert testimony in connection with the Rule 23 motion.

24 MR. RHODES: Yes, your Honor.

25 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, can I address that?

19

2 This is Steven Wittels. We have retained and already served 3 on defendants reports from one of the preeminent consumer 4 fraud internet experts probably in the world. He started 5 and coined a neologism, a phrase called "dark patterns," 6 which is what defendants are doing and what many internet 7 companies are doing, which is using the internet and using 8 consumer psychology to essentially trick consumers into 9 signing up for things they never wanted. Our expert's name 10 is Harry Bridnall, and we've served a long report on the 11 defendants, a preliminary report, that will be fleshed out 12 when there's further discovery. And Mr. Bridnall is as 13 Ph.D., actually an English fellow, has gone through the 14 sign-up process and explains in detail at each step why the 15 consumer is led into or lulled into, really, a sense of 16 security and gives their credit card; and the next thing 17 they find out, as the thousands, many thousands of 18 consumers we're learning about here, have discovered is 19 that after the trial period, they're automatically enrolled 20 into these multi-month plans, and their credit card is 21 charged, and they never saw it coming.

22 So that's really what the essence of this case is.
23 And as Mr. McInturff explained, from our previous cases, 24 when we delve into the emails and the way the company 25 structured how they were going to set up the plan, why they

1 PROCEEDINGS 20
2 did a trial plan because here we know they initially only 3 had a fixed plan you paid for, and then it involved into a 4 method where they could garner, you know, hundreds of 5 millions of dollars. How did they do that? Again, by 6 deceiving customers into thinking that the trial is free, 7 there's no issue cancelling, no risk; all of these things 8 are told to a consumer, but in fact it's the exact 9 opposite.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. WITTELS: Why do we need to get to their 12 ESI -- so that answers your question about how there will 13 be an expert --

14 THE COURT: So the expert's going to why the 15 consumer-facing materials are deceptive or why a reasonable 16 person might be deceived? It's going to --

17 MR. WITTELS: Well, that's what he has --

18 THE COURT: -- that --

19 MR. WITTELS: -- well, that's what he has --

20 MR. MCINTURFF: This is Burkett McInturff. Very 21 briefly. One other critical component of the expert's 22 analysis is also proof of consumer deception. So there's 23 various ways that you can get at proof that consumers are 24 actually deceived. And by far the most efficient way is by 25 using the defendant's own internal information about

21

2 consumer deception. [REDACTED]

3 [REDACTED]

4 [REDACTED]

5 [REDACTED] So facts like that, as well as internal 6 communications, you know, showing both intent and knowledge 7 can be used by the expert to show that this conduct does 8 deceive consumers. So it's both the external sort of 9 forward-facing discovery, but also the internal discovery 10 is used to show that consumers are being deceived.

11 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And I'll hear briefly 12 from Noom on this issue of separation of -- and/or the 13 intertwined nature of the proof on --

14 MR. RHODES: Yes, your Honor. This is Michael -- 15 excuse me, your Honor -- this is Michael Rhodes, for the 16 reporter's benefit. A couple of things. One is they've 17 already proffered an expert report who relied upon the 18 external consumer-facing disclosures and shows that they 19 can already put together their argument. I'm not going to 20 go into my closing argument today, unlike my opposing 21 common-law.

22 And I think just the way they were expressing 23 themselves to the Court today, it shows the problem. This 24 case -- you know, I do nothing but class actions. I've been 25 doing it almost 40 years. I don't think counsel's personal

1 PROCEEDINGS 22
2 experience is relevant to the analysis. The analysis is 3 supposed to be a balancing test between what's fair and 4 reasonable for the plaintiffs to put together a Rule 23 5 application versus the burden and expense to the defendant.
6 And what we've proposed is a reasonable alternative to the 7 other universe that's being proposed to the Court, which is 8 in fact to boil the ocean.

9 Let me give you some context. They have tried to 10 amend the Complaint now three times in six months. The 11 current operative Complaint contains, I think, 1,000 12 paragraphs. We've already produced 60,000 pages of 13 material. And the Court can just look at some of the scope 14 of the Request for Production. Number 6, number 7, 15 number 31, number 10, number 50 and 51, I think there's 16 something like 18 individual requests that include phrases 17 like "all documents relating to the litigation." There is 18 nothing about this discovery so far in the last six months 19 that bespeaks an effort to streamline the process and get 20 to class certification.

21 The cadence of these cases is you go through the 22 Motion to Dismiss, you have a limited discovery phase, you 23 have class certification followed by summary judgment, and 24 eventually, a trial. What these plaintiffs want to do is 25 they want to have everything done before class

1 PROCEEDINGS 23
2 certification. And that's not reasonable or fair. And 3 we've got to draw some limits here. I mean, this has just 4 been drifting for months without any direction or control.
5 And, frankly, it's just stunning to me that we find 6 ourselves in this place. I generally do not get involved
7 per se in discovery. I wanted to attend this hearing today 8 to beseech the Court to bring some sanity to this process.

9 THE COURT: Well, that's going to happen. That's 10 going to happen today. That's why I'm starting out with 11 this question about the Scheduling Order. Let's just talk 12 about the amended -- the proposed Third Amended Complaint.
13 I've reviewed the proposed document, the redline document 14 that plaintiffs provided. Let me ask plaintiff, do you have 15 a named plaintiff for each of the jurisdictions that you've 16 added and all the territories?

17 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor, this is Burkett
18 McInturff. We do not have named plaintiffs for the 19 jurisdictions and the territories listed in the Complaint.
20 We've obviously been contacted by people from all over the 21 country. We haven't been contacted by people from all of 22 the different jurisdictions and territories, but we are not 23 required to have a named plaintiff for each of the 24 jurisdictions under clear Second Circuit precedent in 25 Langon v. Johnson & Johnson. We have standing to bring

24

2 claims on behalf of consumers from other states that are 3 not the named plaintiffs. And as a practical matter -- and 4 that's really what's driving our requested amendment -- 5 because we've been operating as the plaintiffs under the 6 understanding that this case covered every person in the 7 United States that signed up for Noom. And as a practical 8 matter, there's no way to prevent other suits being filed 9 in other jurisdictions covering different portions of 10 whatever we don't cover because these consumers obviously 11 have a right to bring their claim. So we already have put 12 forth in the Complaint, the current Complaint, eight 13 consumers from various states. And it's simply a practical 14 attempt to center the litigation in a single court for 15 purposes of adjudicating the damages claims. It's a little 16 bit different on the injunctive relief issue because of 17 some Article 3 concerns.

18           But to answer your Honor's question, we don't 19 represent people, but we don't have to; and it makes sense 20 to make sure that the Complaint encompasses the entire 21 country because -- and we believe defendants would agree -- 22 we want a single forum to deal with these issues. Because, 23 again, if we get contacted tomorrow by somebody, you know, 24 from a different state, that person, if they retain us, 25 they're likely to direct us to file a class action. So

1 PROCEEDINGS 25
2 it's either serial class actions all over the country or 3 serial class actions filed in this court because Noom is 4 headquartered in New York. So we think the quickest way to 5 make sure that we're dealing with the entire subset of 6 consumers who were affected by the conduct challenged by 7 the case is to amend the Complaint and clear up any 8 misconception as to the scope of consumers covered by this 9 case.

11 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, this is Steven Wittels.
12 May I jump in just to follow-up briefly on what 13 Mr. McInturff said, if I could?

14 THE COURT: Sure.

15 MR. WITTELS: Thank you. Defendant points -- or 16 has made an argument about sanity. We had proposed -- and 17 this goes to why we want to amend the Complaint and think 18 it's appropriate -- we had proposed to Judge Schofield that 19 the Court allow us to go with -- set up a bellwether 20 process, which obviously --

21 THE COURT: Yes, I'm well aware of that. And I --

22 MR. WITTELS: Right. So when --

23 THE COURT: -- I'm familiar with -- I know exactly 24 what went on in the conference with Judge Schofield, so --

25 MR. WITTELS: Right, right. So that was another

PROCEEDINGS

26

2 reason why we needed to amend the Complaint because 3 defendants were taking -- they talked, and they wanted 4 something streamlined, that was the way to have it. They 5 opposed it, and the judge said, well, you have some 6 nationwide counts but you don't seem to have all of them.
7 So in light of that, she had suggested you need to go back 8 to the magistrate judge, which we've done, and amend your 9 Complaint, which we think, again, is appropriate to bring 10 in all of these states. And then we'll still, if the 11 Court, the Article 3 judge thinks it's appropriate, we will 12 ask again for a bellwether. That's a way to streamline the 13 case where you don't deal with 50 states but you deal with 14 two, three states, the big states here of New York, 15 California --

16 THE COURT: Well, if there's common proof, that's 17 just all issues of law. So I don't -- I'm not sure I 18 understand or agree that a bellwether process makes sense 19 in this particular case. But I understand.

20 Okay. So with respect to the proposed amendment --

21 MR. RHODES: Your Honor, may I respond just very 22 briefly?

23 THE COURT: I want -- yes, I was just going to ask 24 for Noom's response to the proposed amendment. Are you 25 objecting to it? And if you are, on what basis are you

PROCEEDINGS

27

2 objecting to it?

3 MR. RHODES: Yes, two things. I mean, I don't 4 think it's fair to characterize the district court's 5 thinking in the manner that was just articulated. I would 6 note for the record that you asked a very simple question, 7 which was do they have a named representative plaintiff for 8 every state in the country. And the answer was no. They do 9 not articulate any coherent theory under which any Court 10 has ever entertained an -- individual 50-state subclasses 11 without having representatives of each of those states, nor 12 have they articulated the variances among state law, how 13 they would deal with those variances. And, indeed, there 14 is developed case law, starting primarily with the case of 15 Mazza, which is a Ninth Circuit case that articulates how 16 these kinds of cases cannot be certified.

17 So our objection is that they are constantly 18 searching for a viable theory, and I would beseech the 19 Court to look for Second Circuit case law that says you can 20 have 50 individual subclasses over a national class action 21 that's already been pled without having representative 22 plaintiffs from each of those various jurisdictions. I 23 think this is the opposite of efficiency. The whole 24 purpose of class certification is to have a case that is 25 susceptible of common proof at trial for efficiency

PROCEEDINGS

28

2 purposes. There's nothing efficient about this. Right?
3 It's just sprawling. Every time you turn around, the case 4 sprawls; and yet, they don't want to go through the actual 5 requirements of the case. How can you have a Mississippi or 6 New Mexico subclass here with nobody in the class that 7 stands up and says, "I will act as a fiduciary for those 8 people, and I am a representative of that group of actors 9 that are governed by those states' laws," without going 10 through a Rule 23 civ? They just want to skip that 11 process. You can't do it.

12 THE COURT: Okay. So --

13 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, may we respond?

14 THE COURT: No, no, not right now. I have a 15 question for Noom.

16 So from a practical standpoint, let me ask, Noom 17 already indicated that it wanted to file a Motion to 18 Dismiss. And the question is is that Motion to Dismiss 19 going to be based on the current operative Complaint, or 20 should it be on the proposed Amended Complaint? And --

21 MR. RHODES: Your Honor, Michael Rhodes -- oh, 22 sorry.

23 THE COURT: -- so, as you know, there's a 24 liberal standard in amending Complaints. At the same time, 25 if the claim would be futile, it's the Rule 12B standard.

PROCEEDINGS

29

2 Judge Schofield's going to decide the Motion to Dismiss.
3 So if Noom wants, we can grant the amendment, and you can 4 include the arguments that you want to make in the Motion 5 to Dismiss that, you know, there can't be a subclass if 6 there's no representative plaintiff. But what I want to do 7 is something that's the most efficient here because if 8 it's an amend, then I'm looking at the futility argument, 9 then I think that that may not be as efficient because I 10 would be doing that as an R & R rather than the Motion to 11 Dismiss piece. And I think that the Motion to Dismiss is 12 jurisdictional, is it not, Mr. Rhodes?

13 MR. RHODES: Yes. Your Honor, your framework is 14 not unreasonable, and I agree with you. I'm familiar with 15 the Foman v. Davis standard that the Supreme Court 16 articulated I think back in 1963 and how amendments are 17 liberally to be granted.

18 Our gripe is we need to stop the expanding and 19 searching for viable legal theories. Get to a Complaint.
20 We've been trying now for multiple times to bring a Motion 21 to Dismiss; and every time we do, the plaintiffs say, no, 22 no, let us change the theory, let us add more claims, 23 let's try to do it differently.

24 So if the Court's instinct is allow the 25 amendment, schedule a Motion to Dismiss argument where

PROCEEDINGS

30

2 we'll tee up this on a joined record where we can argue 3 about these legal issues, that's okay with me.

4 THE COURT: Yes, that's my thought, to permit 5 the amended Complaint and then you can go and do your 6 Motion to Dismiss, and we'll continue, and I'll set the 7 schedule for -- I'm going to revise the Scheduling Order 8 today, and we're going to set a schedule for class 9 certification. But that --

10 MR. RHODES: The other thing I would say, your 11 Honor --

12 THE COURT: -- that's [indiscernible]

13 MR. RHODES: -- the other thing I need to say, 14 your Honor, is I sure hope I'm not going to be barraged now 15 with discovery targeting unique, individualized practice of 16 all 50 states before we've had an opportunity to brief this 17 and get an adjudication of it. That's the only concern I 18 have.

19 THE COURT: Well, I don't think that -- first of 20 all, with respect to Rule 23, if there's going to be -- 21 there's got to be common proof. So I don't know -- I don't 22 see how that makes sense, necessarily, from a discovery 23 standpoint. There's either nationwide common proof or 24 there's not. And all of the claims the plaintiffs have 25 said, even the state law claims, are a similar type of

PROCEEDINGS

31

2 standard.

3 So I'm going to allow the Amended Complaint. This 4 is the last amendment. There's not going to be any further 5 amendments after this Amended Complaint. You can file that 6 by Friday, and Noom can write Judge Schofield to tee up the 7 Motion to Dismiss and set that briefing schedule. I think 8 she, in her last conference with you, she already stated 9 what that schedule should be, although she said you could 10 agree to have a quicker motion practice. But that's -- so 11 that's what we're going to do. The amended -- plaintiff 12 should file the Amended Complaint by Friday, and you can 13 commence with the Motion to Dismiss briefing.

14 MR. MCINTURFF: Judge Parker, this is Burkett
15 McInturff. I'd like to just make one comment, but I think 16 my colleague, Mr. Wittels, would like to confer internally 17 for 20, 30 seconds. Could we briefly confer and then come 18 back on the line? We're not going to hang up. We've got a 19 separate line.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

21 MR. MCINTURFF: Thank you.

22 (Brief silence.)

23 MR. MCINTURFF: Judge Parker, this is Burkett
24 McInturff again. Thank you for indulging us. I just wanted 25 to make clear so that the record is clear, it's not

1 PROCEEDINGS 32
2 uncommon following a ruling on a Motion to Dismiss in a 3 case like this that there would be subsequent Amended 4 Complaints once the Court has weighed in on the underlying 5 causes of action. So we just wanted to -- I just wanted to 6 flag that it's likely that there will be additional 7 amendment requests after the Motion to Dismiss ruling, if 8 anything, just to -- sometimes to clean up the pleadings.

9 THE COURT: Well, it's one thing to conform it to 10 the Court's ruling; it's another thing to add new theories 11 and facts. So I understand what you're saying.

12 No further amendments -- you're going to go ahead 13 and brief this, and any further amendments will be for good 14 cause or upon court order to conform to a ruling on the 15 Motion to Dismiss, if appropriate.

16 MR. MCINTURFF: Just to be clear, your Honor, I 17 mean, discovery is ongoing. I mean, we do have a right to 18 conform the pleadings to the proof. I just don't want to 19 create a record of there being an absolute prohibition on 20 any amendment because that's not consistent with the 21 standard. We understand your Honor's direction; but, again, 22 I'm just concerned about the record because it wouldn't be 23 consistent to say that no amendments are ever allowed 24 again, period, because, as your Honor said --

25 THE COURT: There's no amendments absent good

1 PROCEEDINGS 33
2 cause, absent good cause or to conform to a court order.
3 That's what I said.

4 MR. MCINTURFF: Thank you.

5 THE COURT: You can bring a motion in accordance 6 with the federal rules, but this is -- you've had many 7 chances to amend the Complaint. The Complaint is 1,000 8 paragraphs; it's time that there's -- the issue is joined.
9 So that's what we're talking about here.

10 MR. WITTELS: Right, right, your Honor. Steven 11 Wittels. Just briefly on that.

12 THE COURT: We're not going to have any more 13 argument on this, Mr. Wittels. So --

14 MR. WITTELS: No, no, I wasn't arguing about -- 15 okay, thank you, your Honor.

16 THE COURT: You're going to file the Amended 17 Complaint by Friday.

18 Now, let's talk about the scheduling. I think that 19 the fact discovery needs to be extended through the end of 20 2021, given the volume of data and other issues. And I've 21 already scheduled monthly court conferences through then, I 22 believe.

23 So let's talk about the class certification 24 briefing. It sounds like plaintiffs have already served an 25 expert report. Is Noom also engaging an expert, a rebuttal

34

2 expert?

3 MR. RHODES: Yes, your Honor. It's very likely 4 that we will proffer expert reports in connection with our 5 opposition to the class certification motion.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So given that we've got the 7 Motion to Dismiss that's going to be -- that should be 8 fully briefed by early March. So I don't think it makes 9 sense to have class certification briefing until, say, 10 June. I also don't think that you're going to be able to 11 produce some of the remaining information and data needed 12 until June. So what I'd like to do is set a schedule for 13 class certification briefing. Let's do June 30th for the 14 moving brief.

15 MR. RHODES: August 30th, your Honor, for the 16 opposition papers? Can we have 60 days?

17 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor, this is Burkett
18 McInturff. Just briefly, June 30th is the day before we 19 have a 10 a.m. conference with your Honor. Typically the 20 night before a class certification brief is a very late 21 night. Could we maybe do another day that week, like maybe 22 the 2nd of July, that Friday?

23 THE COURT: So --

24 MR. RHODES: We're worried about something six 25 months in advance, and they can't get it ready for trial?

35

THE COURT: We can always modify the dates for the monthly conferences. So if we need to move that date at that time, we can do that.

THE COURT: That's not a problem. You can always -- if something comes up -- I'm going to get to know you all very well during the course of this year, so if something comes up and you need to make a modification of a status conference day, just let me know that so we can move that if we need to.

12

So June 30th. And, Noom, you're saying you need 60 days?

14

MR. RHODES: That would be preferable, your Honor, if that's possible.

16

THE COURT: Sixty days is coming into the Labor Day Weekend time frame.

18

MR. RHODES: How about August 27th, your Honor, which is before that.

20

THE COURT: Okay. So August 27 for opposition to class cert. And do plaintiffs need 30 days?

22

MR. WITTELS: No, your Honor, we would request 60 days because the reply contains, you know, most of the meat responding to the defendant's arguments. On a class certification motion of this sort, it's actually the reply

36

2 that takes the most work.

3 MR. RHODES: I would object to that, your Honor.

4 Thirty days is more than sufficient. That's nine months 5 from today. It's their motion; it's their burden. We've got 6 to move this thing along.

7 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, that's very 8 unreasonable. And if he were the plaintiff's lawyer, he 9 would know that, because we've done these many times; it's 10 always the reply that requires you to rebut the arguments 11 you -- and it's very different, from our perspective. We 12 don't think 60 is unreasonable. And you're arguing over 30 13 days?

14 THE COURT: Well, normally, the reply is two 15 weeks. But I am mindful that there's a lot of holidays 16 around September. You've got the -- September is a very 17 busy month typically. You've got, you know, Labor Day; 18 you've got the Jewish holidays; you've got the -- September 19 is an extremely busy month. So I'm going to put the reply 20 due October 22nd.

21 Okay, now, let's now talk about -- I understand 22 there is some overlap in discovery. And we're not going 23 to -- you know, I don't want to have artificial bright -- 24 it's difficult to draw a bright line as to some issues as 25 to what's class cert. and what's merit; so that there

37

2 necessarily is going to be some overlap. But what I want to 3 talk about now is the ESI protocol first. I'm not going to 4 appoint a special master; there's no need for that. Second, 5 the Court is going to issue its own order based largely on 6 Noom's proposed protocol. And I will issue that shortly, 7 most likely this week.

8                 With respect to the disputes that the parties have 9 been having in advance of the status conferences with the 10 Court, I am directing you to have a simultaneous exchange 11 of your agenda items five business days prior to the 12 conference, exchanged by five p.m., limited to two pages; 13 and simultaneous exchange of your positions three business 14 days prior, at 5 p.m., also limited to two pages. And you 15 can submit the letter two business days before the 16 conference.

17                 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, this is Steven Wittels.
18 Can you just go over that again? Because what's been 19 happening with the rule you had about the three-page, you 20 know, submissions together is it's turned into almost a 21 back-and-forth briefing of issues. We present something --

22                 THE COURT: That's what I do not want.

23                 MR. WITTELS: -- the defendants --

24                 THE COURT: I do not want a back-and-forth 25 briefing of issues. That is totally excessive. There is

PROCEEDINGS

38

2 no need for that. I have managed many, many, many large 3 cases, and I have never seen the amount of disputes that 4 you all are bringing to me.

5 MR. WITTELS: All right.

6 THE COURT: The purpose of the letter is simply to 7 highlight agenda items in a very high-level way. And I 8 don't want a lot of briefing. We can have discussions about 9 them; and if I need more briefing, we'll have more 10 briefing. But that is not the point of the letters. And so 11 that's why we're going to have a simultaneous exchange.
12 Okay?

13 MR. WITTELS: Right. So can you just go over what 14 it is you expect -- because you have a five-day and a 15 three-day -- so it's very clear? Because we don't want any 16 misunderstanding about what's --

17 THE COURT: Yes. Each side is going to exchange 18 their proposed agenda items five business days prior at 19 five p.m. I'm going to put this in an order so you're going 20 to have it written down. And then you'll, if you want to 21 summarize your position on the issue, there'll be a 22 simultaneous exchange summarizing your -- I don't know if 23 there's going to be overlap or not -- a simultaneous 24 exchange of the positions three business days prior at five 25 p.m. And then you can take turns; one month the plaintiff

39

2 can combine it into one letter, another month defendants 3 can, to be submitted two business days prior to the 4 conference.

5 MR. WITTELS: And is that still subject -- Steven 6 Wittels again -- is that still subject to the three-page 7 rule? We've been fighting about page limits, as well, on 8 this, unfortunately.

9 THE COURT: Correct. I'm actually limiting it. Two 10 pages each for your simultaneous exchange. That is 11 correct.

12 MR. WITTELS: Two pages each. So it's two pages 13 total, or it's two pages for each side?

14 THE COURT: Two pages -- well, two pages for your 15 simultaneous exchange, but it may ultimately be up to six 16 pages if you -- I don't -- again, each side may have a 17 little response, you know, summarizing its response to the 18 two-page agenda items, and so that is building up to 19 potentially six pages for the joint letter.

20 MR. WITTELS: Thank you for that clarification.

21 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor, this is Burkett
22 McInturff. Could I raise a related issue? It seems like it 23 might make sense to discuss it now, which is plaintiff's 24 request for a standing weekly meet-and-confer so that the 25 parties can actually discuss outstanding issues?

PROCEEDINGS

40

2                   THE COURT: Yes. I'm not going to order that 3 because the Court -- it's not appropriate for the Court to 4 get into that kind of micromanagement of this. You all are 5 officers of the court, and you should be able to meet and 6 confer. And there are parts of -- you know, there are 7 times during the course of a case where you may need to 8 have more frequent interactions and other parts of the case 9 where you may not need to have that frequent interactions.
10 Right now it's an intense phase, so you may need that. But 11 I'm not going to issue an order on that. I expect you all 12 to cooperate.

13                  MR. WITTELS: This is Steven Wittels on that 14 point. And one reason that -- I'm sort of in Mr. Rhodes' 15 situation. I don't like to get into the weeds, so to speak, 16 on discovery. And we let -- you know, we have a big team, 17 but you don't want to have everyone involved in this. But 18 what I'm seeing happening -- and we put this into our 19 letter to you -- is that when we make proposals to the 20 defendant to meet and confer, we're now getting 21 roadblocked; they won't meet and confer. So that's why 22 Mr. McInturff said there's got to be some way to jump-start 23 this without bothering your Honor and coming in here with 24 long lists. So they don't want to produce discovery; we 25 get that. But we need to have meet-and-confers, and if

1 PROCEEDINGS 41
2 they're not going to produce something, we need to be able 3 to have a resolution without waiting for it, you know, 30 4 days where --

5 THE COURT: Of course. Of course.

6 MR. WITTELS: And we don't seem to have that,
7 because you've said cooperate; but from our standpoint, 8 from the plaintiff's, we're not getting that cooperation.
9 Defendants complain that they've never --

10 THE COURT: Well, I'm --

11 MR. WITTELS: You know, that we're boiling the 12 ocean --

13 THE COURT: Okay, I'm directing you now -- I 14 understand. I understand the frustration that you have.
15 But I'm directing everybody now to do better. So -- and 16 hopefully today we're going to get some greater clarity of 17 what the Court's expectation is of both sides.

18 Now, let's next go to -- and I will say that, to 19 the extent there needs to be -- there's some urgent issue 20 that can't be addressed at the monthly conference, you can 21 write a letter to me, and I can have another interim 22 conference in between. But that should not be something 23 that is routinely necessary. It may be that we have to have 24 it during some months in the course of litigation that we 25 need to have biweekly conferences. If we need to do that,

42

2 we can. But I do expect you all to be cooperating, both 3 sides to be cooperating.

4 Now let's move onto the RFPs. Okay, no more charts 5 with respect to RFP requests. I think, having reviewed your 6 charts, I think it's a waste of time now. Many of the 7 plaintiff's requests were very overbroad, and I mentioned 8 that when I initially saw the requests. The charts did not 9 assist this Court, and in terms of -- it doesn't seem to me 10 to make much sense. There's no point in plaintiff saying 11 what they think Noom's position is and then have Noom 12 clarify. It just -- to me, after having reviewed the charts 13 at length for hours, it seems more make-work than anything 14 else. So no more charts. That doesn't seem to be an 15 effective use of people's time, in my view.

16 In terms of document requests, I'm limiting 17 plaintiff to 25 more document requests without subparts.
18 Your requests have been so broad that I can't imagine that 19 there's anything else that you possibly need. Now, if 20 something comes up and there's good cause to have more, 21 then you can make an application to the Court.

22 In terms of the instructions, directions and 23 definitions, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the 24 Local Rules will apply, and that's it, except to the extent 25 you want to define a term that's unique to the case, such

1 PROCEEDINGS 43
2 as, you know, the Healthy Weight Program, something like 3 that.

4 Now, with respect to Noom's request for the 5 Protective Order, I'm going --

6 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor -- your Honor, this is 7 Burkett McInturff --

8 THE COURT: Yes?

9 MR. MCINTURFF: Could I interrupt just for a 10 clarification? So you're saying that plaintiffs have leave 11 to file an additional 25 document requests targeting the 12 particularized data that we identified in our letter?
13 That's what I understand you to be saying. What about the 14 requests that have already been issued that are the 15 subject of the parties' dispute in the charts?

16 THE COURT: Well, we're going to talk about that 17 now.

18 MR. MCINTURFF: Oh, got you. Okay. I just wanted 19 to clarify.

20 THE COURT: You've already served a kazillion -- 21 not a kazillion but a number of document requests that --

22 MR. MCINTURFF: I think the word is "bazillion," 23 your Honor.

24 THE COURT: What's that?

25 MR. MCINTURFF: I said I think the word is

44

2 "bazillion."

3 THE COURT: Yes, right. So there's -- but you're 4 quite thorough in your requests, but overzealous in terms
5 of how they're phrased. So that's a problem.

6 I'm going to grant the Protective Order with 7 respect to requests, RFPs 6, 7, 8, 13, 28, 41, 42, 46.
8 With respect to 48, that relates largely to the org 9 charts; and as I understand it from Noom, Noom has 10 produced or is willing to produce the current org chart, 11 but it does not have historical data --

12 MS. REDDY: That is correct. That is correct, 13 your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

15 MS. REDDY: Yes, so we produced the historical org 16 chart back in September. And we've explained to plaintiff 17 that we do not have historic -- we've produced the 18 organizational chart that existed as of September to 19 plaintiffs. And we explained to them we do not have 20 historical versions. There's no ability for Noom to 21 prepare a historical version retroactively without 22 significant burden or expense. So we believe we've 23 produced documents that we have sufficient to satisfy a 24 response to this request.

25 THE COURT: Has there been a lot of turnover in

PROCEEDINGS

45

2 the last couple of years of staff with knowledge about the 3 Healthy Weight Program? It's only been around for a little 4 bit of time, anyway. But has there been a lot of 5 turnover --

6 MS. REDDY: Correct, your Honor. No, actually. I 7 mean, so nine of the ten custodians who we have designated 8 so far have actually been at Noom for virtually the entire 9 relevant period, so over four years. There hasn't been a 10 lot of turnover. We've designated custodians who are 11 intimately familiar with the issues involved in this 12 litigation, including the head of product; the president of 13 Noom, who's also the cofounder of Noom. Most of these 14 individuals are longstanding employees of the company.

15 THE COURT: Okay. All right, so I don't know that 16 there's anything more to produce from 48. Let me hear from 17 plaintiff?

18 MR. MCINTURFF: Could I be heard on this? Thank 19 you, your Honor. This is Burkett McInturff. As a follow-up, 20 we requested that if Noom doesn't have historical org.
21 charts, that they give us email lists or thumb trees.
22 Because the purpose here is -- or any other document that 23 identifies people's titles because it's not a big company.
24 It's, you know, between 50 and 100 people during the 25 relevant period that are in the headquarters that are

1 PROCEEDINGS 46
2 making the decisions that relate to the conduct that's 3 being challenged. And if the company doesn't have an org.
4 chart, which is not uncommon, they certainly have -- likely 5 have some sort of email list that lists everybody's email 6 or some other directory, whether it's phone or otherwise.
7 And typically those lists contain titles and positions.
8 And we want this because we want to be able to evaluate the 9 proposed custodians and proposed alternative or additional 10 custodians. And we don't think it's too much to ask to 11 produce phone lists or phone trees or email lists if they 12 historically existed. And, again, it's not a big ask; and 13 we don't see why the defendants are refusing to provide the 14 information.

15 THE COURT: So given that you've already received 16 information on the staff and given that there's been little 17 turnover and given that there's going to be production of 18 information at depositions where you can learn who may be 19 the additional custodians, I'm going to deny the request 20 for additional production under Request 48. I don't think 21 that's proportional to the needs of the case.

22 Okay, so next --

23 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor, could I just -- could 24 I raise one other issue related to this request?

25 THE COURT: No. I've made my decision.

PROCEEDINGS

47

2 Now let's move onto Requests 31 and 33. In my 3 view, they overlap, to some extent. And they are both 4 drafted in a very overbroad manner. What I did think would 5 be relevant, though, would be internal reports, memoranda, 6 PowerPoints to management and the board regarding consumer 7 complaints about the Healthy Weight Program and in 8 particular the complaints about the deceptive information 9 provided to consumers about signing up, about the free 10 trial period, then enrollment into autorenewal, how to 11 cancel, the Better Business Bureau warning that was issued 12 and the company response thereto. So it seems to me that 13 those are somewhat overlapping, but that would be a more 14 specific type of request, and that type of information I 15 think is relevant and should be produced.

16 In terms of the Request 34, where you're 17 requesting -- that's a much more specific request related 18 to the statement that the CEO put out regarding -- I guess 19 it came the day of or the day after the Better Business 20 Bureau warning. In my view, this is a very discrete request 21 insofar as this was a very concentrated time frame. So it 22 seems to me there should be nonprivileged communications in 23 the week prior to the warning. I'm guessing that the 24 company had a heads-up that this may be coming. And -- or 25 if it didn't, it didn't -- but a week prior, and then the

1 PROCEEDINGS 48
2 communications about the warning, how it was phrased, and 3 the drafting and issuance of the message of Noom's CEO. So 4 it seems to me there were probably various stakeholders 5 involved from, you know, marketing, from compliance, PR, 6 etc., who may have been evaluating what was coming down the 7 pike and planning exactly what to post, you know, what the 8 CEO should say about it and post about it. And there may 9 have been a couple of -- there may have been some 10 communications in the week after the issuance of the 11 statement, you know, responses to it. I don't know if there 12 were responses to the board about this and the statement 13 that was issued. But it seems to me that you can look in 14 the two-week period, you know, a week ending with the week 15 prior to the warning and week after the issuance of the 16 CEO's statement for communications about this. I realize 17 that there will be some privileged communications; those 18 are going to have to be logged.

19               Okay, now --

20               MS. REDDY: That's fine with us. Thank you.

21               THE COURT: -- with respect to Request
22 Number 45, the plaintiffs have requested some information 23 or in their response they say that many of the complaints
24 are recorded in this Zendesk application. And I understand 25 that Noom has already agreed and is producing internal

PROCEEDINGS

49

2 policies and training materials that it provided to 3 customer service or coaches about the trial period, the 4 signing up, the autorenewal, the cancellation, etc. But 5 what -- and that you're suggesting that you do a sample of 6 complaints. I'm just wondering what is the -- have you had 7 discussions about this Zendesk application or database and 8 even how you would do a sample or whether a sample is, you 9 know, a scientifically appropriate sample? What's been 10 discussed about that? Let me hear first from the plaintiff.

11 MR. MCINTURFF: Yes, your Honor, so the parties 12 have discussed a sampling of the Zendesk customer service, 13 I'll categorize them as "tickets," because whether or not 14 something is a complaint is another issue. And plaintiffs 15 are prepared to agree to negotiate a statistically-16 significant and methodologically sound sampling of these 17 tickets. But in order to do something that is defensible 18 from a methodological standpoint, we need to know more 19 about what's in the Zendesk database. And we're prepared to 20 work with defense counsel, and we have a statistical expert 21 on retainer who can advise us to work out a sampling 22 methodology that will allow us to draw conclusions about 23 the underlying data in the database. But if the sampling is 24 not both defensible and joint, we're going to have fights 25 about whether the sampling yields results that can be used

1 PROCEEDINGS 50

2 to draw inferences from. So we proposed to the 3 defendant --

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. WITTELS: -- we proposed to the defendant to 6 work out a joint sampling methodology. But if we can't 7 work that out, it's our position that we are entitled to 8 the contents of the database. But we'd rather not deal 9 with the burden of the review of the database, and we would 10 like something targeted. But we can't agree until we've 11 been educated about the database.

12 THE COURT: Yes. Okay. So let me ask Noom about 13 this database. So is my understanding correct that any kind 14 of consumer complaint or complaints go into and are stored 15 in this ZenDesk platform?

16 MS. REDDY: Your Honor, this is Ms. Reddy. Yes, 17 that is correct. Our understanding is escalated complaints 18 and any sort of consumer complaints, including those that 19 are addressed by Noom's third-party consultants, end up 20 within ZenDesk, with the exception of complaints that are 21 addressed on social media, since those are public, those 22 communications are public, they're not separately logged in 23 ZenDesk.

24 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And so do you have a 25 separate team that evaluates complaints on social media and

1 PROCEEDINGS 51

2 tracks them in any way?

3 MS. REDDY: Correct. So that's handled by the 4 consumer service team and also Noom's third-party
5 consultant, which we've disclosed to plaintiffs, Brann 6 Zaftian.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So there's two sources of data 8 for the complaints and what's happening with the 9 complaints, the ZenDesk and then the materials from social 10 media and what's done with that internally or externally 11 with your consultant?

12 MS. REDDY: Correct. But the vast majority --

13 THE COURT: So --

14 MS. REDDY: Excuse me, your Honor. I was just 15 saying the vast majority of communications or customer-16 related complaints are stored within the ZenDesk.

17 THE COURT: Okay. But does the ZenDesk segregate 18 or have any kind of cataloging system so that you can 19 ascertain whether the complaints are relevant to the 20 Healthy Weight Program and the particular concerns about 21 it, such as the alleged deception and autorenewal? Is there 22 any way to pull those out?

23 MS. REDDY: So there are broad macro-level 24 categories in which complaints are categorized in ZenDesk, 25 including billing-related disputes. Again, since

1 PROCEEDINGS 52
2 [indiscernible] during the relevant period was the Healthy 3 Weight product, most consumer communications are going to 4 relate to the Healthy Weight products. So what we would 5 propose to do and what we had been working with the data 6 team at Noom internally to devise is a sampling methodology
7 to sample Zendesk tickets using the macro-level 8 categorization that the company assigned.

9 THE COURT: But what I'm hearing you say, though, 10 is that during the relevant period -- remind me when the 11 Healthy Weight started again? It was '16?

12 MS. REDDY: So the pilot program was first tested 13 in the summer of 2016, and the flagship product was 14 launched in March of 2017.

15 THE COURT: Okay. And so -- and the autorenewal 16 started with the pilot?

17 MS. REDDY: That is correct, your Honor, the 18 autorenewal of the Healthy Weight Program.

19 THE COURT: Okay, and so after the launch of the 20 flagship product in 2017, most of the complaints in Zendesk 21 would pertain to the Healthy Weight?

22 MS. REDDY: That is correct, your Honor.

23 THE COURT: And in terms of the features of that 24 product that are the subject of the Complaint, have any of 25 those changed or, you know, in a way, in any material way

1 PROCEEDINGS 53

2 since the suit was filed; or are they still in place?

3 MS. REDDY: So I suppose it depends on the 4 specific features of the product that are being challenged.
5 My understanding, based on the operative Complaint, is that 6 the only other feature that is really being challenged is 7 the use of alleged bot-coaching. And that's aside from the 8 cancellation and renewal features of the product. And so, 9 you know, I don't know if the proposed Amended Complaint is 10 going to expand the scope of features to the product that 11 are alleged to be deceptive. But at this point, we would 12 propose to pull primarily documents and complaints related 13 to billing, autorenewals, refunds, cancellations.

14 THE COURT: And do you have an idea of the volume, 15 how many complaints? Plaintiffs have said that there's 16 millions of people in the putative class, but only a subset 17 would be complaining. Do you have any idea what the 18 numbers are? I'm just trying to figure out, like, does it 19 make sense to even extract? Does it make sense just to 20 take, you know, take from, you know, day one of the launch 21 to, you know, a date through 2020? What makes sense?

22 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor --

24 MR. WITTELS: Your Honor, this is Steven Wittels.
25 On that point, we know -- and I don't know if this is

1 PROCEEDINGS 54
2 confidential information, but we know that there's -- I
3 won't give the exact number, but a [REDACTED] [REDACTED] 4 number for the number of people who received refunds. And 5 that means that those people had complained and wanted 6 their money back. So you're talking about a very large 7 number of people. And that's the ones we know they gave 8 refunds to. I mean, we don't know how many more people than 9 that complained.

10 THE COURT: Okay. But we don't know precisely why.
11 You're guessing the majority are because of the features 12 that are challenged in this lawsuit.

13 All right, it sounds like you all need to have a 14 little bit more discussion about how best to do that.
15 Sometimes extracting data, it takes more time than it's 16 worth because you have to, you know, create separate code 17 to extract it. And maybe -- but I'll let you all talk about 18 that. But it's -- and also what data there is from the 19 social media and the consultant. Because it sounds to me 20 that's very key information that needs to be produced. And 21 I want you to focus on how you're going to do that over the 22 next two weeks. And I want you to really focus on what 23 makes sense to extract and exchange that information.

24 With respect to requests --

25 MR. MCINTURFF: Your Honor --

1 PROCEEDINGS 55

2 THE COURT: -- and I only have a few more 3 minutes --

4 MR. MCINTURFF: Could I seek a clarification?

5 THE COURT: -- now. Yes.

6 MR. MCINTURFF: Yes, just this is Burkett
7 McInturff.

8 THE COURT: Go ahead.

9 MR. MCINTURFF: If I could just very briefly seek 10 a clarification? One of the issues is that we're concerned 11 about from the plaintiff's side is originally the parties 12 agreed to work out a sampling methodology, and then the 13 language that the defendant has been using has changed to 14 the defendant is going to do a sampling methodology. We 15 cannot agree to a unilaterally implemented sampling 16 methodology for complaints.

17 THE COURT: Sure, sure.

18 MR. MCINTURFF: So we want to make it clear that 19 we have to be involved and we have to reach agreement 20 before this happens.

22 MS. REDDY: Yes, your Honor. We've already 23 confirmed with them that we'll involve them in the 24 sampling methodology.

25 THE COURT: Okay. So what I want to do now is

2 there were some other items that I wanted to review with 3 you all. We're not going to have time to do it because I 4 have another call. I'm going to schedule an interim status 5 conference. We're going to go over the remainder of the 6 items that are at issue. And between now and the next 7 conference, I want you to talk about this sampling and this 8 data, because that is very important to get out and address 9 that now. I see that as more important than, you know, 10 miscellaneous emails.

11 So let's see here. Chris, are you on?

12 THE CLERK: I'm on, Judge.

13 THE COURT: Can we schedule something maybe 14 Jan. 27?

15 MR. WITTELS: That works for plaintiffs, your 16 Honor.

17 MS. REDDY: That works for defendants, your Honor.

18 THE CLERK: January 27 is pretty jammed, Judge.
19 You have a -- the morning's full, and you have a settlement 20 conference in the afternoon, unless you're looking to --

21 THE COURT: Okay. Hang on. So what about around 22 that day?

23 THE CLERK: Would you want to do Friday, the 29th?

24 THE COURT: Let's see. Yes, we can do that.

25 MR. WITTELS: That also works for plaintiffs, your

2 Honor.

3 MS. REDDY: That also works for defendants, your 4 Honor.

5 THE COURT: Do we have the morning open, Chris.

6 THE CLERK: Yes, the whole day; the morning's 7 open, Judge.

8 THE COURT: Okay, let's do 10 a.m. the 29th.

9 And I don't need a preconference letter from you 10 all. What I want you to report on verbally is what you're 11 going to do about producing customer complaints and 12 information and response thereto. And then we'll address 13 some of the other RFPs that I didn't address today and some 14 of the other issues that were raised in your agenda 15 letters. Okay?

16 MS. REDDY: Thank you, your Honor.

17 MR. WITTELS: Thank you, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Thanks, everyone. We're adjourned.

19 (Whereupon, the matter is adjourned.)
